Overview

What is the Breitling Superocean Heritage?

The Breitling Superocean Heritage is a sporty, classic diving watch reminiscent of the Swiss manufacturer's first Superocean from the 1950s. The Heritage collection includes both three-hand models and chronographs. The Superocean Heritage has been part of the Breitling catalog since 2007.

Why should you buy a Breitling superocean?

Today, the Breitling Superocean appeals to both professional divers and watch aficionados, thanks to its superior technical specifications. Powered by a reliable automatic movement, the watch guarantees precise timekeeping.

What can you do with a Breitling superocean watch?

Dive with it, surf with it, swim with it, hit the beach bar with it. Breitling Superocean watches for leisure divers and watch enthusiasts: dive watches with 60 years of legacy. Find a watch that suits your lifestyle!.

What's new in the Breitling Superocean collection?

A new addition to the Breitling Superocean collection is the limited-edition Superocean Automatic 42 in collaboration with Breitling SurferSquad champion Kelly Slater. This stand-out model boasts an eye-popping orange dial and military-green rubber strap, limited to only 1000 pieces.

What is the water resistance of the Breitling Superocean Automatic?

The Superocean Automatic in 42mm is water resistant to 500 meters. It measures 13.32mm-thick and is done in steel, coming in three color schemes on either a bracelet or a rubber strap.

What is a Breitling superocean slow motion?

By the 1960s, Breitling had honed its undersea expertise into the SuperOcean

Slow Motion, a chronograph for seasoned divers looking for optimal performance and legibility. Today's Superocean brings this legacy into the 21st century. It's sporty, technical, durable, and comes in a range of fun colors.
