Is storing a power bank (or any electronic device) in a car during summer a good idea?

Here in Southern California it can get pretty high in the triple digits (115 for example). So my concern is that if my phone is ever dying or some sort of rechargeable flashlight needs to charge, will my.

Is it safe to leave a power station inside my car and have the cable go through my window to charge my car battery?

So I recently moved to an apartment building that unfortunately doesn't have an outlet in front of my parking space where I would usually plug in my Noco battery charger or a block.

It's very possible that they will. Make some physical adjustments to the car to be able to plug in a cord, and run wiring to the interior to have an outlet inside the car. Buy a power station and run the heating pad off that. You'll need to know how much power the heating pad pulls to be sure.
