Overview

The average price of EPC for energy storage projects generally falls within the range of $1,000 to $3,000 per installed kilowatt; this cost can fluctuate based on various factors such as project scale, technology employed, site conditions, and location-specific economic considerations. What is an EPC contract?

7 Conclusion EPC contracts are becoming increasingly popular in the renewable energy industry as a way to reduce risk, costs, and timelines associated with a project. Understanding the key elements of an EPC contract, as well as the legal terms and conditions, is critical to ensuring the success of the project.

What is an engineering procurement and construction (EPC) contract?

1 Introduction For companies looking for a reliable and cost-effective way to develop renewable energy projects, an Engineering, Procurement and Construction (EPC) contract is an essential legal instrument for delivery of the project.

What are EPC performance guarantees?

Performance guarantees are in place to ensure the EPC contractor performs its obligations under the EPC contract. These performance guarantees are supported by liquidated damages payable to the principal where the EPC contractor under-performed the contract. Handover, Testing and Commissioning.

What makes a good EPC contractor?

Generally, an experienced and reputable EPC contractor would be familiar with the project and be able to manage any potential risks and cost escalations. Importantly, the contractor is also responsible for ensuring that the project is compliant with all applicable laws, industry regulations and standards. 3 Elements of an EPC Contract.

Can an EPC contractor subcontract to a third party?

EPC contracts may allow part of the EPC contractor's works to be subcontracted to third parties. The EPC contractor shall usually be required to notify the principal and obtain their approval with respect to the subcontractor's appointment. Dispute Resolution and Governing Law.

Who is responsible if a project is completed by an EPC contractor?

An EPC contractor shall be solely responsible for the works, and therefore any issues arising out of the project. Consequently, the principal shall be entitled to defects and rectification of the same, or some form of monetary compensation.
